Arts of France Show At Astor Tower

"ARTS OF FRANCE," a brilliant and beautiful collection of fine art stamps and art books and contemporary Aubusson tapestries loaned by the French Government, is on exhibition in the French Center of Astor Tower Hotel, 1300 North Astor Street, through November

Highlight of the show is the actual $10,000 progressive proof color sheet for the stamp created by Chagall, shown publicly for the first time and completed at the request of the French Government which issued stamps imprinted with celebrated paintings by its masters. Other stamps bear the work of Cezanne, E. Manet, Delacroix, Gericault, Matisse and Braque.

Particularly noteworthy is the stamp loaned by Jacques Marette, postmaster general of France. It commemorates the first Europe to U.S. Television by satellite, July 11, 1962, and on a globe of the world indicates the connecting towns of Andover, Massachusetts, and Pleumeur-Bodou, France. Several stamps vividly recall noble events in recent French history, the resistance of World War II.

The exhibit includes a treasure trove of French art books embracing art, architecture, history, literature, travel and a charming and colorful collection of children's books. Beautifully bound and enriched with brilliant colorplates the display is a dazzling array of the finest printing to come out of France today.

Seven of the most superb artists in the world at designing tapestry, creating contemporary designs for the atelier of Tabard at Aubusson, headline the "ARTS OF FRANCE" show. For the first time in America, this collection of tapestries by Jean Arp, Sophie Taeuber-Arp, Sonia Delaunay, Theo Van Doesburg, Auguste Herbin, Richard Mortensen, and Victor Vasarely is exhibited. The show was assembled by Denise Rene.

The ancient art of tapestry is revealed in recent renaissance. Tapestry, France's oldest civilized art, reached its peak when splendor-loving French monarchs commanded massive tapestries to warm and brighten the walls of their chateaux. In modern terms, the tapestry art form is a scant twenty years old.

JERRY LESTER

Pseudolus

Well-known and loved by American audiences, Jerry Lester made his first nation-wide impact with the late night TV show, "Broadway Open House" on which he not only introduced the colossal blonde, Dagmar, but gave to the country an entire new realm of colloquialisms which shall live on forever such as "real George," "bean bag," and "Stop that dancing up there!" His highly successful career in virtually all show business media beginning in vaudeville years ago, zoomed upward as he won the hearts and laughter of elite audiences of such famous night clubs as the Copacabana in New York, Chez Paree in Chicago, the Flamingo and El Rancho Vegas in Las Vegas and Fontainebleau in Miami Beach. From night clubs, the Jerry Lester legend moved on, capturing the world of radio where he starred with Sinatra, Crosby and Rudy Vallee before landing his own programs. On Broadway, he played in Vinto Freedley's Jackpot, for his present director George Abbott in Beat the Bank, for Leonard Sillman in All For Fun and in Earl Carroll's Vanities. His last Broadway stint was taking over his present role in A Funny Thing Happened . . . etc. A welcome guest to any living room, Mr. Lester recently brought his inimitable style of humor back to the television screen through the new comedy-variety program, The Jerry Lester Show on CFTO-TV in Toronto. Last summer he started on the musical tent circuit in Do-Re-Mi. Mr. Lester is an adept juggler, magician, and songwriter, and is the author of the book, The Comedian. He is presently working on his soon-to-be-released autobiography And Jerry Lester Is His Name.

PAUL HARTMAN

Senex

Born of lengthy show business ancestry, Mr. Hartman made his first theatrical appearance in the arms of his father, Ferris Hartman at the age of six weeks. Three years later he made his performing debut as a singing and dancing pickaninny in Johnny Comes Marching Home, produced by his father. As a teenager, Mr. Hartman broke into vaudeville forming a dance team with Grace Barrett whom he later married. Known as The Hartmans, they danced all over Europe and once back in New York they skyrocketed, breaking records at such spots as the Waldorf Astoria and the Plaza. They were the first to attempt a musical in summer stock with Noel Coward's Tonight at Eight Thirty and Cole Porter's Anything Goes. Their own revues, Angel in the Wings, for which Mr. Hartman won the Donaldson Award and the Antoinette Perry Award and Tickets Please were favorites of theatregoers. When Grace passed on, Paul Hartman was forced to continue on his own, playing on Broadway in Of Thee I Sing and The Pajama Game. He fast gained nation-wide acclaim with his innumerable TV performances on The Defenders, Ben Casey, Alfred Hitchcock Presents, Have Gun, Will Travel, The Bell Telephone Hour, Twilight Zone, Thriller, Naked City, I Love Lucy, Play of the Week, Kraft Theatre, Studio One, and starred in the series Pride of the Family and in The Hartmans at Home. Known to motion picture fans also, Mr. Hartman is recipient of the Lambs Award for Distinguished Achievement in Theatrical Arts.

ARNOLD STANG

Hysterium

Mr. Stang began his career as a knickered schoolboy from Chelsea, Mass. where he won a running comic spot in New York on NBC's radio program, The Horn and Hardart's Children's Hour. He subsequently was heard on Duffy's Tavern and The Henry Morgan Show with his classic character, "Gerard." Television aficionados will remember his as "Francis," the badgering stage-hand on the Milton Berle Show. The Perry Como, Ed Sullivan, Garry Moore, Red Skelton, Bob Hope and Jack Benny shows have been enlivened with Mr. Stang's appearances, as well as What's My Line, I've Got A Secret, and December Bride. He currently stars in the TV series, Top Cat. Last year he flew close to 100,000 miles between New York and Los Angeles fulfilling TV and film commitments. Movie fans have seen him as the curly-haired comic in My Sister Eileen, So This Is New York, as Sparrow in Man With the Golden Arm, and more recently in The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm and It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World. Mr. Stang has also played in five Broadway shows and countless musical and dramatic stock productions. His many recordings including Peter and the Wolf and Where Ya Calling From, Charlie? continue to be the best sellers. In between assignments, Mr. Stang enjoys a quiet unharried life at home with his wife, Joanne and their two children.

ERIK RHODES

Born in El Reno, Oklahoma. Mr. Rhodes attended the University of Oklahoma where he won a Phi Beta Kappa key. His theatrical career got its professional start with the play, A Most Immoral Lady in New York, following with his appearances in The First Little Show with Fred Allen and Clifton Webb, The Gay Divorcee with Fred Astaire, and on tour with Alexander Woollcott in The Man Who Came to Dinner. His motion picture credits include The Gay Divorcee, Top Hat, One Rainy Afternoon, and On Your Toes. Applauded throughout the nation in supper clubs, Mr. Rhodes also starred in his own TV show, Wonder Boy. His summer stock engagements include the role of the king in The King and I, playing opposite Blanche Thebom in Call Me Madam, and with Lilo, Patrice Munsel and Genevieve in Can-Can.
